SceneDeal brings brand resources and official updates together in its PR room

English and Korean posters, brochures and official press releases join the brand film and its language editions.

SceneDeal's PR room brings its brand film, promotional materials and official updates together on the website. Available from the PR menu, the collection combines a featured campaign with a grid of resources that visitors can open, read and download.

The library is organised into promotional videos, advertising, posters, brochures, company profiles and press coverage. Category links help visitors find a particular type of resource. Detail pages provide the description, publication date, publisher and available files; categories without published resources display an availability notice.

The collection now includes the 60-second brand film The End. A New Beginning. in five video editions, along with two poster designs, one six-page service brochure and three official press releases in both Korean and English. The English print and editorial editions give international creators and buyers another way to explore SceneDeal's message and service.

Visitors can view and download poster images and obtain brochures and press releases as PDF files. Videos can be played or downloaded by language edition. Official press releases are labelled as materials written by SceneDeal, so visitors can distinguish them from coverage published by an independent media outlet.

The site's PR administration area manages titles, descriptions, categories, covers and files. Administrators can also set publication status, display order and featured resources. The PR room provides a shared point of reference for the brand's published campaign assets and official service updates.
